WILL CONVEENE AT NEW LONDON

Joint American and Mexican Commission Not to Hold Meetings in
This City

Much to the regret of everyone in this city and vicinity, the conference of the joint American and Mexican representatives to settle the differences between the two countries, will not be held in Portsmouth, but at New London, Conn. The commissioners and their party sailed from New York today for New London, and, beginning Wednesday they will hold two two-hour conferences each day.

The members of the commission met at New York Monday at a luncheon given by Secretary of State Robert Lansing. Prior to the luncheon Secretary Lane, Judge George Gray and John R. Mott, comprising the American commission, made an informal call on the Mexican delegates at the hotel where the latter are stopping. Secretary Lansing accompanied the visitors.

The principal address was made by Mr. Lansing, who declared that if "suspicion, doubt and aloofness" marked the coming deliberations, the commission might expect to accomplish little and would leave the two nations "in the same tangle of misunderstandings and false judgments which he felt to have been the chief reasons for controversies in the past."

Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican commission, in reply to Secretary Lansing, said that the result which his commission seeks is the same sought by the American delegates and that the mutual spirit of harmony might be inferred from the notes exchanged by the two governments.

"It is no easy matter to reach an agreement as to the complex subjects of mutual interest to our two countries and to find a way which will satisfy not only the two governments, but also the peoples of the two nations," said Mr. Lansing.

"I need not assure you that my government has been inspired throughout the past three years with a sincere desire to arrange in an amicable way the numerous questions which have arisen as a result of the civil strife which has shaken the Mexican republic to its very foundations and has caused so much suffering and privation. We have watched the progress of the revolution with anxious solicitude; we have tried to be fair in judgment and to see things from the point of view of those who control the destinies of Mexico; we have sought to be patient and to await the time when the approach of peace and order in Mexico would offer favorable opportunity for the adjustment of our difficulties; from first to last we have kept our minds from rancor and bitterness and prejudice, and have in a spirit of disinterested friendliness confidently expected that the day would come when the representatives of the two countries could meet and calmly and frankly discuss our relations."

"That day has at last arrived. The present conference is a realization of our expectation."

"Your success depends upon the spirit, which you, commissioners of both governments, evince when you discuss the various phases in our relations. If this spirit is one of frankness, of trust, of sympathy, it requires no prophet's vision to foresee that you will succeed. But if suspicion, doubt and aloofness mark your deliberations, you may expect to accomplish little and leave the two nations in the same tangle of misunderstandings and false judgments which I feel have been the chief reasons for our controversies in the past."

"The immediate subject and the immediate cause of your meetings here today is the situation along the international border. I believe that a temporary solution could be readily found, but the government of the United States seeks a permanent settlement of the difficulties, and I feel assured that the government of Mexico desires nothing less."

"It seems to me that if you would reach a complete adjustment of the matters affecting our relations which will satisfy the future as well as the present you cannot avoid considering the personal rights and economic interests of Americans who have found in Mexico a field for their energies. It is through the consideration of such subjects that seeds of future controversy can be destroyed and entire confidence restored, so that the Mexican government and people may build on the ruins of war and disorder a new and more lasting prosperity than the republic has ever known."

The New Hampshire Fish and Game league was organized Monday night in the old court house at Manchester to take the place of the dormant New Hampshire Sportsmen's league, a loose organization of sportsmen's associations and gun clubs. Several of the leaders in the fish and game activities of the state have been the value of a strong state organization, and Monday night's action makes it a reality.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Walter B. Farmer, Hampton Falls; secretary, Richard Shute, Exeter; treasurer, J. H. Mendall, Manchester; committee on incorporation, Walter B. Farmer, Senator Henry F. Hollis, Richard Shute, Dr. John H. Gleason and J. H. Mendall.

Seven organizations were represented at the meeting—the Exeter Fish and Game association, Lone Pine association, Nashua, Winnepesaukee Protective association, Sunapee Fish and Game Protective association, Tuckfield club, Amoskeag Textile club, and the Manchester Fish and Game Protective association. Letters were received from every sportsmen's club in the state with one exception, and all favored the organization.

It will be the object of the league to secure legislation for the proper protection of game within the state, and to this end the establishment of sanctuaries will be recommended; in which hunting and fishing will be prohibited.

MEXICAN R. R. CUT BY BANDITS

Villa Followers Are Blamed for the Destruction.

El Paso, Sept. 5.—The Mexican Central railway connecting Chihuahua City with the border was cut during the night near Villa Ahumada, 120 miles south of the border. Villa followers are blamed for the destruction. Carranza authorities have not learned the full extent of the damage. At last reports Villa's main body of 700 men was within marching distance of Nampulquipa, once Gen. Pershing's headquarters, and now the nearest community to the southern advance post of the punitive expedition. Two bandits are within 50 miles of Pershing's southern outpost. De facto government authorities across the river are fearful that Villa will reach an ammunition cache in the neighborhood of Nampulquipa. It is reported that Villa is short of ammunition and is making his way northward to secure several hundred rounds of cartridges buried in the hills near there.

BOTH PARTIES EXPECT A LARGE PRIMARY VOTE

Arrangements were virtually finished yesterday for bringing out the voters at the biennial state primaries today, to select candidates for the November election.

One of the most interesting contests in the campaign has been in this congressional district, where Congressman Cyrus A. Sullivan, who is now 77 years old and has been prominent in the national House of Representatives for nearly 20 years, has two opponents for the Republican nomination. They are the Rev. Thomas Chalmers, who resigned his pastorate at the First Congregational Church in Manchester to enter the campaign, and George Irving Haseleton who was president of the state Senate at the last election.

For the Republican gubernatorial nomination there are two candidates in the field, Col. Roscoe W. Pillsbury of Londonderry, a former newspaper publisher and shoe manufacturer, and Henry W. Keyes of Haverhill, a farmer and former chairman of the state excise commission.

The Democrats also have a two-sided contest for head of the ticket between John C. Hutchins, a druggist of North Stratford, and Albert W. Noone, a woolen manufacturer of Peterboro. These two men were opponents in the primaries two years ago when Noone won the nomination by two votes only to be defeated by Gov. Spaulding the Republican nominee.

The Democrats have another contest in the 2d congressional district, where former Mayor Charles French of Concord and Raymond B. Stevens of Land-loff, a former member of the national House and now special counsel for the federal trade commission, seek the nomination. Congressman Edward H. Watson of Nashua is unopposed for the Republican nomination. The only Democratic candidate in the 1st congressional district is Gordon Woodbury of Bedford, a newspaper owner and real estate operator.

The Progressives will hold no primary this year but may write the name of the candidates they favor on the ballots of other parties. Those receiving the majority of votes may appear on the ballots at the November election as the Progressive candidates.

Interest in this city lies in the contests County Solicitor Albert R. Hatch of Portsmouth, candidate for re-nomination on the Republican ticket, and County Treasurer Parker, also a candidate for re-nomination on the Republican ticket. Mr. Parker is opposed by Mr. Rowe and Mr. Hatch by Mr. Steeper, both of Exeter. As it means much to the city to hold these two important county offices here the Republican Committee has been very active in their efforts to turn out a big vote at the polls today. The committee appears to be satisfied that they have succeeded in a great measure and one of the largest polls is being looked for by both democrats and republicans. The polls open at 6:00 o'clock in the morning.

The polls will be closed at 4:00 o'clock in this city instead of 6:00 o'clock as is believed to be the case by many of the voters.

POLICE ARREST PICKPOCKET AT HAMPTON BEACH

During the rush at Hampton Beach on Monday evening Chief of Police Tolman made an important arrest in the capture of a pickpocket who gave his name as George Townsend of No. 665 Shawmut avenue. Townsend it is alleged was working in the most crowded part of the beach directly in front of the Casino where the people were moving from the electric line.

Considerable money was found on his person and several articles that would cause suspicion. He has been staying at one of the hotels for several days and the police believe he is one of the gang who have been working the game for several days.

(By Peter P. Carney)

More than $3500 in money and prizes will be awarded at the tenth annual trapshooting tournament of the Westy Hogans, in Atlantic City, September 13, 14 and 15. In addition to the many valuable trophies that will go to a greater number of shooters this year than ever before, the Hogans will add to the program a greater amount of cash than in former years.

The winner of first average money this year is guaranteed $100, or more; $50 will be added to the Lewis Class Optional on each day of the regular program—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; $100 will be guaranteed to the winner of the first money in the Westy Hogan Handicap, formerly the Bull Durham Handicap.

The Hogans have restored the special event for women to their program this fall. This proved to be a very attractive feature of the 1914 tournament, and as there is a demand for it this year, the fair sex will no doubt be largely represented. From reports received by various members of the Hogans there will be a greater attendance of shooters from the middle west, principally from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, this year than ever before. This indicates that interest is being shown in the Westy Hogan East and West team race, which promises to be one of the most popular events of the program. All shooters who received a program last year, and all who attended last year's tournament, will receive a program this year.

RICHARDSON'S DEATH A SHOCK

Delaware Champion Was Not Only a Great Trapshooter, but a Sportsman in Every Sense of the Word.

(By Peter P. Carney)

The trapshooting fraternity was shocked as it never was before when news of the death of Col. Alden B. Richardson, of Dover, Del., came from the Delaware Hospital in Wilmington on the night of August 6.

"Doll," as he was known the country over in trapshooting circles, was a 24-karat sportsman, a man who shot before the traps for the pure love of the sport and the comradeship it engendered. He did not have an enemy in the world. He was a "pal" to everyone.

Richardson's death resulted, through injuries inflicted by the accidental discharge of a revolver. Motoring to his home in Dover, Richardson carried a number of articles out of the machine. It was necessary to take out one of the cushion seats, under which the revolver had been placed. The gun fell out of the car, and as it struck the street, discharged a bullet, which lodged in the abdomen. The trapshooter was conscious until the last. He is survived by a wife and two children.

Richardson was a member of the staff of Gov. Miller of Delaware, an officer of the Richardson & Robbins Co., of Dover, one of the largest manufacturing concerns in the world, and leaves an estate valued at more than a million dollars. Former United States Senator H. A. Richardson is his father.

Richardson won the trapshooting championship of Delaware in 1914 and 1915, and lost the amateur championship of the United States last year by a single target. He won the preliminary handicap at the Grand American shoot in 1913. This year he was shooting better than any amateur or professional in the country, having an average of 97 per cent for more than 2000 targets, and was considered the best amateur trapshooter in America. No trapshooter discharged a gun nor broke the targets with more ease than he.

His loss will be keenly felt by the trapshooters, who will remember him as he was. Out of respect to him the Delaware State Championship was postponed for one week.

WILL PLAY BALL WITH VISITING ELKS.

One of the features of the annual outing of Portsmouth Lodge, No. 97, R. P. O. E., will be a base ball game played during the morning hours at the south playgrounds, between a nine composed of visiting Elks, principally from Haverhill, Mass., and a team picked from the local lodge.

Band Concert and Address by Hon. John H. Neal Included in Program Attendant to the Ceremonies Last Evening.

On Monday evening, under the auspices of the Republican Committee of Portsmouth, with a large crowd of men, women and children present, a big national emblem was unfurled flanked on either side by two banners, bearing the names of Hughes and Fairbanks, the Republican candidates for president and vice president, respectively. For a half hour before the ceremonies a concert was rendered by the Portsmouth City Band under the direction of H. S. Kneeland. At 8:00 o'clock, to the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" the great flag was unfurled, and three rousing cheers were given.

As the speaker of the evening for the ceremonies, the Hon. John H. Neal was introduced by F. W. Hartford. Dr. Neal proved again to be a man well versed in the political situation of the day and after speaking of the flag and the institutions for which it stood he spoke for several minutes on politics and the coming campaign.

He said, in part, "Politics, according to the first definition, is the science of government, and a politician, therefore, is a man well versed in this science. You will meet many men who will tell you that they have no interest in politics because, as they say, 'politics are rotten.' I say to you, that these men are neglecting their duty and if politics are rotten, as they claim, then it is their duty to do their part towards making politics right.

"Every man, woman and child, who can read the English language, owes it to himself to study the political situation of the day. At present this nation is facing the greatest political crisis in its history. A great many questions must be answered in this campaign and a study of the situation is needed in order to have them answered in the right way.

"In 1913 the Democrats told you that the reduction of the tariff would reduce the high cost of living. I am looking for information and I ask any man, woman or child here to tell me of one single article which is lower now than it was in 1913 when the protective tariff was taken off imports?

"The Democrats tell us that they reduced the tariff because it was unconstitutional, but they didn't abolish the tariff, and left some duty on for revenue. They believe it unconstitutional and think it wrong, but they still have a duty on some things.

"From 1913 to the start of the European War, the cost of living was not reduced, although the lower tariff was working. Since the start of the war the tariff has had no opportunity to be tried. It might have been taken away altogether as no manufactured goods were being shipped into the country. All the fighting nations were begging for American made goods, and were willing to pay any price. Their men were engaged in the destruction of life and property, they have no time to manufacture and they must have the goods. They are taking them from this country and paying high.

"Wages are good here, and labor is fully employed, but this war isn't going on forever. And when it stops the men who are now fighting are going to return to their work. Class distinction is wiped out in the warring countries and the men of high rank are going to labor with the common laborer, so-called before the war, when peace comes. The male population is much decreased in the warring nations. There will be less demand for their products, and this country will lose its markets. And we are going to be flooded with European made goods.

"American labor will be the sufferer. This country will be ruined unless the tariff is put back for protection. Isn't it better to put the making of the new protective tariff in the hands of men who have always believed in it, who know that it is right; or is it better to leave it in the hands of a party which believes that it is wrong and unconstitutional?"

Dr. Neal also spoke of the high record of Mr. Hughes and of the stand occupied by him on the labor questions while he was governor of New York, and since that time, he called attention to the fact that it was the duty of all to make an effort to take advantage of their opportunity to see and hear Mr. Hughes when he comes here on Thursday.

Following the address of Dr. Neal a parade was formed, headed by the band, and a march made to the County Court House. The probate court room was filled to capacity and the meeting took the form of a rally, presided over by F. W. Hartford. At the invitation of the acting chairman remarks on the political situation were made by a number of Portsmouth's leading citizens, including Thomas B. Wattle, County Solicitor, Albert R. Hatch, Representative Ralph C. Gray, Hon. Ernest L. Guphill, Col. John H. Bartlett and others.

TWO BOLD ROBBERIES ON THE CABLE ROAD

Cable Road, Rye Beach, was the scene on Monday of two of the boldest daylight robberies ever perpetrated in this section, breaks being made between the hours of 2:00 and 3:00 o'clock at the residences of P. W. Ribb, superintendent of the Rye Cable Station, and at the Keeper bungalow which is occupied in the summer by a Mr. Merrill, professional golf player at the Abenaki Golf Club, and his family. Nothing was taken at the Ribb residence as the burglar was frightened away, but he secured a good haul at the Keeper bungalow, the loot including $30.00 in money, and a gold wrist watch belonging to Mrs. Merrill. Both of these houses are easy of access in the rear, which can be gained from the thick woods, the trees affording ample hiding protection from passers and giving the intruder an opportunity of spying on the houses without great danger of being observed.

The break in the Ribb house was particularly bold as Mrs. Ribb was seated on the piazza at the front of the house when the intruder gained the rear, and Frederick Ribb, her son, was sleeping in his room. The burglar secured a ladder which was lying near the house, and entered through a chamber window on the second floor. Mr. Ribb's room was entered first and after the discovery it was found to have been thoroughly ransacked, drawers pulled out of the dresser and the articles in the closet pulled over. Similar treatment was given the room of Mrs. Ribb and here a jewelry box was taken from one of the drawers, placed on a table, evidently for the purpose of later taking it away, and it was found there.

It is then supposed that the burglar looked into the room of the sleeping man, saw him there, and becoming frightened left the house by the same ladder with which he had made his entrance. The side of the house where the entrance was made can be plainly seen from the road and from nearby houses, but the burglar was not seen by anyone.

At the Keeper bungalow the entrance was gained through a bathroom window in the rear of the house. The occupants of the house were all out at the time of the robbery and the thief was able to accomplish his work undisturbed. The drawers and trunks were ransacked, the contents scattered about the rooms and the watch and money taken. A large number of Portsmouth people were at Rand's Grove throughout the day, attending a picnic and as these houses could be easily reached from the grove through the woods it is thought by some of the residents that someone attracted to the vicinity by the picnic was responsible for the breaks.

DANCE FETE AT GREEN ACRE

The culminating event of the season at Green Acre, Elliot, was a large dance fete held Saturday evening. Artistic dances were given by Mrs. Cowles, Misses Ruth Spinney, Elizabeth Hanson, Florence Hanson, Miss Manning, Mrs. Ingels, Mrs. Hallway, the Misses Smoot, Haxington, Houser, Parker, Selger and Jack, Dr. Geislinger, Mrs. Minnelli, Prof. Douglas, Miss McCarthy, Mrs. von Lenthal, Messrs. Bamford, Ashraas and Hissel, Miss Gertrude Hammond, Miss Dorothy Jenkins, Elizabeth Davis, Miss Vivian McConney, Miss Isabelle Remick and Miss Laura Harris.

The feature solo dances were by Miss Mary Murtin, Miss Houser and Mrs. Minnelli of Haverhill.

In the afternoon the finals in the mixed doubles in the tennis tournament were held in connection with the fete. Mrs. Pratt of Medford and George Latney winning from Sanford Kinney and Miss Anne Wilkinson of Boston. The sets were 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

The exodus of the summer guest was very marked on Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning.

PORTSMOUTH BEATS TWIN CITY BY BUNCHING HITS

The Portsmouth base ball team defeated the power-Somersworth Twin City aggregation Saturday afternoon by a score of 7 to 1. "Spike" Jordan was in the box for the locals and pitched fine ball, allowing the visitors only three scattered hits. Charlie Thomas of Bowdoin college did the back stop work in a very creditable manner and also made a long drive to right field in the sixth which allowed him to circulate the bases. Toward in deep center played a fine game accepting few chances. The work of the infield was of the snappy order. Cavanaugh of St. Anselm's College excelled for the losers.

A Needed Prison Reform.

The escape from the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., of Robert Fay, a former officer of the German army, and particularly the manner of his escape, would seem to warrant the question whether the "honor" system is not being carried too far. This man was convicted of munition plots in New York and Jersey City and was sentenced to eight years in the federal prison, by no means a harsh sentence in view of all the circumstances. And now in the guise of a workman going outside the prison yard to do some work he walks off as coolly as if he had been a free workingman. Without a pass, with only his unsupported word, the display of a few tools and a plausible story about what he had been sent to do, he was permitted by the guard to pass out without question. After getting out he disappeared promptly and the mistake of the prison authorities was discovered when it was too late.

If this were a solitary instance of the kind it would not seem so bad, but it is not. Only a short time ago two "model" prisoners escaped from Sing Sing in a very similar manner, and there have been other cases which, as a contemporary says with reference to this, "reflect anything but credit on the intelligence of the prison authorities."

The trouble appears to be that what some so fondly call the "honor" system is being overdone. Because desperate criminals will behave themselves when they are in a position where they are obliged to it is assumed by prison reform fanatics that the most hardened individual needs only kind treatment and confidence to make him good.

This theory has received many severe jolts, and these will keep coming so long as the practice of leniency is carried to an extreme. No right-minded person calls for the harsh treatment of prisoners, but the fact is that prisoners should be treated as prisoners and not as men worthy of unlimited confidence, and while civilization demands that they be treated humanely it is wrong to allow them to forget that they are in the hands of the law and must expect to be deprived of some of the privileges of life in the open.

Playing with prisoners as a cat does with a live mouse is wrong, and it is time the practice should stop, in federal prisons and all other prisons.

The horse trade continues good at East St. Louis, where, according to a dispatch, representatives of the allies are buying 1,200 a week, while the United States government is buying 800 a week. In spite of all the accomplishments of the automobile there will always be use for horses in time of war; also in time of peace. The records show that foreign countries have bought $39,000,000 worth of horses in the United States since the beginning of the war.

American exports to Russia now amount to $2,000,000 a day, and the greater part of these exports are not munitions of war. With such a trade established with the great country to the north in these troublous times there is reason to expect that it will continue to be good after the close of the war. Russia is a big buyer and is well worth cultivating as a customer.

Ex-President Taft jokingly says that a walk of four blocks in Chicago the other day without being recognized by any one convinces him that he is out of politics. Most American public officials come sooner or later to realize the truth of the old saying, "Out of sight, out of mind." The public attention is confined chiefly to those who are at present on the boards.

In one eastern town the street laborers, who are receiving $2.25 a day of eight hours, are demanding $2.50. The cost of living is given as the basis of the demand, but the real explanation is that this sort of thing is fashionable. It is "in the air," and that is where some of the demands ought to be left.

Some of the southern railroads claim they can keep their trains moving, even if the strike comes according to schedule. They are said to base their hopes on the large number of negro train employees who are not members of the brotherhoods. Perhaps also they could enlist some of the firemen who were kicked out of their jobs on the Georgia railroad some years ago simply because they were negroes.

Pennsylvania now has the largest number of Grand Army men of any state in the Union, the total being 15,890, New York coming second with 15,576. The total in the country is 149,974. More than 10,000 have died within the past year. A disappearing organization is the Grand Army of the Republic.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Surrender is Complete

(From the Manchester Union)

The craven abandonment of the principle of arbitration in labor disputes, under political pressure exerted by the four railroad brotherhoods, by President Wilson has been matched by a similar surrender by Congress. The country is afforded the delectable spectacle of the national legislature, forsaking calm discussion and orderly investigation of a proposal for an increase in wages on interstate railroads and under duress, supinely yielding to every demand made by the brotherhood leaders. It is the most humiliating and most profoundly menacing procedure, unsettling to industry of every character and putting a positive premium on the practice of inflicting political labor problems, that American legislative history affords.

But it is unnecessary that Republican newspapers dilate upon this development, or make drafts upon their reserves of denunciatory comment. This purpose is more admirably served by quoting the language employed by the leading Democratic newspaper of the United States, the New York Times, which says:

"The blackmailing of the whole nation under the threat of a strike, the extortion from the nation's legislature of a special act granting the demands of the brotherhoods without time to inquire into its justice or its practicability, puts upon the country an intolerable humiliation. It reduces 100,000,000 people to a condition of vassalage, no longer permitted to make laws that freely express their will, but held up, as the highwayman's victim is held up, and forced to instant compliance with the terms imposed upon them by the leaders of organizations comprising only 400,000 of their number."

"The brotherhoods deceived the public for a time; they appear to have deceived the President. They insisted that their demand for eight hours was not arbitratable. It is the general opinion that the President erred grievously in not insisting, with equal firmness, that they consent to arbitration. Instead he appears to have yielded to their demand at once and then to have employed his time in seeking to compel the railroads to accept a matter for arbitration, certainly for deliberate examination and inquiry, to the end that justice shall be done. That the President should have insisted on it. The railroad presidents proposed arbitration, were willing to arbitrate; the brotherhoods refused. That is the real situation, and the public understands it perfectly."

"The only expression in this scathing arraignment of Congress with which we are not in accord is the assertion that the President was deceived by the brotherhood leaders. He was not deceived. He chose cold-bloodedly to attempt to make political capital for himself out of a labor situation which threatened to disrupt transportation and communication throughout the country. He failed in his personal efforts in this behalf, but he has not appealed in vain to his fellow-Democrats in Congress. With a cowardice equal to Wilson's but with broader powers the Democrats have surrendered and by that surrender have given a slugging blow to the peaceful adjustment of labor controversies by arbitration, have invited labor leaders to take labor disputes into partisan politics, and have put a stain upon the record of Congress which is ineffaceable."

"And the evil effect of this policy of Wilson and the Democratic majority in Congress upon the best interests of labor, and particularly of unionized labor, will make itself felt for many years. In the country as a whole, the total number of union labor men is overwhelmingly less than the number of men outside the unions. The success of union labor in securing its just and righteous demands invariably lies in the wholesome popular support which their efforts invite. If labor union affairs, however, are so conducted as to antagonize the general public, not included in union labor membership, union labor would suffer a tremendous loss. The arbitrary, arrogant attitude of the railroad brotherhoods and the craven surrender of the administration before their threats have unquestionably made the cause of the railroad brotherhoods unpopular. Under such conditions there is a positive danger of a united movement of all elements outside of union labor circles to call a halt upon union demands which are not accompanied by an offer of arbitration, thus demonstrating the confidence the workers feel in the justice of their claims. If this movement is permitted to take definite form, the cause of organized labor will be seriously imperiled in the immediate future and impetus will be supplied to a division, politically, between those who belong to unions, and those who do not, a thoroughly evil and dangerous thing to the nation and peculiarly perilous to union labor itself."

A Seat of the Mighty

(From the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Rep.)

A building within a building, a little log cabin sheltered by a structure of classic outlines, will be a centre of national or rather world interest, when the Lincoln Memorial Building is accepted by the United States Government.

CURRENT OPINION

Americanism Defined by an Original American.

Americanism is a word which bears promise of being drilled into our ears daily between now and election. What does it signify? As a result of much discussion about the hyphen, the opinion of an "original American," a member of one of our "first families" becomes interesting. The Hon. Houston H. Teehee, register of the United States treasury, is an Indian well qualified to express such an opinion. In the following interpretation of the word, he speaks for many other "original Americans," many of whom occupy important government positions.

What does an aborigine conceive to be the meaning of Americanism, that much exploited word? Americanism is good citizenship. Good citizenship has been defined as requiring "implicit obedience to the laws enacted by the legislature within the scope of its constitutional power; to the orders and decrees of the judiciary in all matters of which they have jurisdiction; to the commands of the executive in preserving the peace and enforcing the laws."

Americanism is unmeasured love of our country; unreserved devotion to its fundamental principles; complete consecration to its ideals.

Americanism excludes the idea of races of men in the sense of divided loyalty under one government. Therefore, it is the amalgamation of all that is best, true, and noble in our composite citizenship dedicated to the peace and happiness, freedom and liberty of mankind everywhere.—By Houston H. Teehee, Register, United States Treasury.

ment, the date of which event has been fixed as Sept. 4. The building that enfolds the cabin as a most precious thing has been erected by popular subscription through the Lincoln Farm Association, which raised $250,000 for the purpose by an appropriate appeal to the whole people. Fortunately it is that the cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born has been preserved, and will be preserved for all time. It is only ten logs high to the eaves, with a rustic plaster between, while the chimney of short logs, alleys and mud stops a long way before reaching the pole forming the apex of the roof. The cabin has been restored to its original site near Hodgenville, Ky., and near by is the unfading spring that attracted the pioneer father in choosing the spot for habitation, humble but manly, lowly in material prospects but high in free-born American courage, feeling the deep impulse of American destiny, ready to fight, and die if need be, for the right.

What Abraham Lincoln represents in American history must be profound by interesting as long as the nation lasts, and that will be as long as the American fighting spirit lasts, a spirit that is never aggressive, but inflexible in honorable self-respect, proof alike against cowardly tendencies and milk-and-water philosophy. Lincoln was a man of peace, a lover of his fellow-creatures. But it never occurred to him that he could be unwilling to die for his country if its stability demanded the sacrifice. He did die for it at the cost of duty where circumstances placed him. He fell at a supreme moment of the nation's victorious assertion of the principle that a government so constituted should not perish from the earth. The people discovered his fitness to lead by an instinctive intelligence as a great emergency loomed ahead, and plainly demanded the leadership of the greatest man to be found in any of the states. If he was singled out then by the inner perception of the people, why may not any coming crisis have the aid of this powerful insight? The people will not be fooled when grave peril threatens the republic, or he misled by men in whom vanity and irresolution are left in the crucible when the test is applied.

The pioneer axe was heard round the world when the cabin in which Lincoln was born was hewed in a few days from the surrounding forest.

Arctic Foolishness

(From the Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Ensign Fitzhugh Green, U. S. N., has arrived in Denmark, and has said nothing about Crocker Land, the mysterious circum-polar continent which Peary thinks he saw. There probably is no such thing as Crocker Land, yet it is very likely that Peary was honest in saying he saw it. Donald McMillan, an old comrade of Peary's, later went to look for Crocker Land and he, too, thought he saw it, but when he went to explore it, he found that he had been deceived by an Arctic mirage. American geographical authorities have erased Crocker Land from their maps.

Now because Ensign Green by his silence bears out the generally accepted theory of the non-existence of Peary's continent, Congress is asked to investigate Peary's claim to have discovered the north pole. An attempt is already being made to deprive the explorer of his rank of admiral.

To bring such matters before Congress in the height of foolishness. Questions of this kind must be answered and disputes settled by qualified scientists and explorers. These experts even before the coming of Ensign Green, had decided against Peary on the Crocker Land matter, but their decision in no way affects the discovery of the pole. There is almost complete unanimity in according the honor to Peary. The proved non-existence of Crocker Land increases rather than decreases the credibility of Peary's records and observations, for Peary did not claim to have explored the "continent," and there was no glory in the mere announcement of its existence. The fact that McMillan himself thought he saw the land is sufficient to indicate Peary's voracity.

Wagging the Dog

(From the Boston Herald)

Take your pencil a moment and in the upper left-hand corner of this page draw a line across the first column, just above the words: "Entered at the Boston (Mass.) postoffice." This line will cut off a scant inch from the head of the column. Now shade this little oblong space with a few strokes of your pencil, so that when you hold the whole page up to view at arm's length, you can easily compare this top inch of the first column with all the printed space upon the sheet.

In the size of this pencilled part as compared with the page as a whole, you have pictured—generously—the proportion of our railroad men to the population they now are serving.

So closely do the railroads net our land, so intimately do they fill our daily needs, that we overestimate the number of men they are employing. We forget how small a part, after all, their employees make in the total number of our people.

For every man that a country-wide railroad strike would take from his usual past, two hundred and fifty men, women and children—counting in round numbers and leaving out interested thousands across the Canadian line and overseas—two hundred and fifty Americans alone, for every striker would feel the inconvenience and the loss that such a blow to long established traffic would entail.

With one strange exception—Mr. Wilson—no thoughtful man wishes to declare the merits of the controversy between managers and men. He has weighed for himself the facts involved. But meantime every manufacturer and mill hand, every fisherman and farmer, every housekeeper, nurse and mother, knows that in a time and a land like ours, with boards of arbitration for the asking, a willful stoppage of railroad traffic deserves to be classed with violence in a court.

The President's Crude Proposals

(From the New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin)

President Wilson's initial mistake in not taking a firm stand against the railroad men's threat of a general strike if their demand was not complied with, cannot be relieved by any such crude and hasty legislation as he now proposes to Congress. It is not the eight-hour day for the men that is at stake, but the eight-hour basis of pay which is equivalent to a heavy increase in expense of operation. That is not a question for mandatory legislation, but for proper inquiry and arbitration. Investigation before judgment should be insisted upon now and not made to await a new law to take effect after the loss has been incurred. It may be desirable to give the Executive power to take control of railroad lines for military purposes "in case of military necessity," but that is a separate question and the limitations should be calmly considered and clearly defined. What is needed now is a determined stand on the right policy and not a hurried effort to get it after a wrong is done which cannot be remedied.

The Duty of Congress

(From the New York Commercial)

Congress must deal with this emergency and must not forget that the train crew unions have delisted public opinion and have threatened to inflict needless suffering upon millions of innocent persons. The train crews admit that they are well paid, but they seek to gain more by taking advantage of the unpreparedness of the public. Just as a foreign foe might try to levy tribute on us by taking advantage of our lack of military preparedness. The first duty of Congress is therefore to pass high laws as will protect the public against such sudden onslaughts as the train crew unions threaten. Such measures will take the bread out of so-called employees' mouths, but will help to guard other workmen and their families from starvation.

"First in a Village"

(From the Portland Press)

One reason for the attitude taken by some of the leased lines of the Boston & Maine is that some officials hate to give up the petty offices they have been holding and the salaries that go with them. Of course all of the leased lines maintain their corporate existence and have presidents and directors. In case of a consolidation these officials will be merely stockholders.

The Flag Will Fly

(From the Brooklyn Eagle)

Once more the Pacific Mail puts the American flag over the Ecuador and starts the steamer from San Francisco for the Far East. Even stupid legislation cannot wholly kill American enterprise, but the La Follette and Furber have much to answer for.

MARKET LETTER

The Situation

The settlement of the strike controversy, however unsatisfactory it may seem from an economic standpoint and illustrating as it does the steady swing of the country towards socialism, removes the big uncertainty that has been hanging over the market. It brings into greater prominence the unparalleled factors that are at work in the current industrial boom.

Every day sees the strength of the steel situation more pronounced. Bookings are being made that have been held back for months in the expectation of lower prices. Pig iron buying is vigorous along the Great Lakes. The enormous amount of new construction that is going forward all over the country alone assures capacity orders for the steel companies well into the second half of 1917.

In fact estimates of the Steel Corporation earnings are being made on nearly the same basis as this year. It is said that the earnings "are being made on nearly the same basis as this year. It is said that the earnings for the final quarter of this year will surpass all records, probably totalling over $80,000,000.

Under these conditions there is little doubt that the Steel Corporation directors will order the distribution of increasingly large and extra dividends or else place the stock upon a permanently higher basis. The way has been paved by the action at the last meeting. The tendency of the day, moreover, is reflected in the resumption of dividends by American Locomotive and the batch of increased disbursements by the Hayden-Stone mining properties.

The Steel directors do not meet for dividend action until the last of October. The market should be a purchaser until that time. The iron and steel stocks and the standard rails offer the greatest possibilities.

Erie

Erie issues, particularly the common, are said to have again been under accumulation and the stocks in question have given some evidence that such is the case. Erie is now in position to begin dividends on its first preferred stock and it is expected that this action will not much longer be delayed.

Erie's gross continues to show substantial gains over last year but increased expenses recently have been absorbing the greater part of these gains. This increase in expenses has been, in considerable measure, due to heavy maintenance appropriations being made at this time. The fact of the matter is that Erie has changed the allocation of its maintenance expenditures to conform with the change in its fiscal year to coincide with the calendar year. In the earlier months of 1916 maintenance was showing a great reduction as compared with 1915. In recent months these deficiencies have been more than made up.

In June the increase in gross was $1,101,000, but in net only $182,000 in net. Results for July are expected to be somewhat similar. Gross increased about $700,000. Very little of this gain, however, is expected to find its way down to net.

This condition is expected to be temporary. The company expects to get expenses under better control, with the heavier maintenance work out of the way. Nevertheless the 3 hour day, if it is forced upon the railroads, will quite materially increase operating expenses and will affect Erie like all the others.

For six months to June 30 Erie's net after taxes increased $2,320,000. Even if it added nothing to this increase in the last six months, it could show a per cent earned on the common, after allowing for preferred dividends.

Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation
Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation from its last crop earned $25 or $30 a share for the 500,000 shares of common stock. It would of course take only one more year of big earnings to mean that the company has returned in surplus earnings a sum equal to the present selling price of the stock. But there is a big "if" here, and that is the selling price of sugar during the ensuing year.

The raw-sugar market has recently sagged off materially, getting down to 5-8 cents as compared with an extreme high of 5-12 cents. However, it is not the extremes of the price swing that are so important, but the average. Cuba Cane can make good money on 2-4 cent sugar, but it is reasonably assured that the price of sugar will rule above that level until some time after the war. In 1913-1914 the European beet sugar production was 8,113,000 tons, dropping to 5,100,000 tons in 1915-1916. Here is a reduction of 2,713,000 tons, which has only been partly made good by increased cane yield. Cuba, for example, has increased its output about 100,000 tons since 1913-1914.

but despite the most strenuous efforts of every sugar producing country to boost its output the 1916-1917 world crop will be about 800,000 tons below that of 1913-1914.

After the war is over the European beet countries will, undoubtedly endeavor to restore their production to the ante-war figures. But it should be borne in mind that owing to her natural advantages Cuba can raise sugar as cheaply as any country on earth. Cuba Cane Corporation produces one sixth of the island's entire output of about 3,000,000 tons. The company owns four of the ten largest mills in Cuba, and is in position to operate with the maximum economy. While the end of the war may result in a readjustment of raw sugar prices, the anticipated increase in European production cannot be a factor until at least a year after peace has been declared.

East Butte Copper

The directors of the East Butte Copper Co., are expected to meet in the next 60 or 90 days to declare an initial dividend of at least 50 cents a share. A distribution could have been made to stockholders several months ago but it was the policy of the directors to build up a large surplus of present high price for the metal which now places the company in a position to better finance the carrying of its copper resulting in a substantial saving in interest charges to the banks.

There has been a remarkable change in the financial position of the company in the past five years resulting in a $2,000,000 debt being turned into a $1,500,000 surplus. In other words the Pittsford property, the purchase of which was the occasion for the $2,000,000 debt, has not only paid for itself from its own operations but will build up a surplus of equal amount to East Butte stockholders before the close of the present calendar year.

At the present the production is a record proportion, the July output being nearly 1,900,000 lbs. copper which is at the rate of 23,000,000 lbs. per annum. With a continuance of present output the company can earn over $7 a share per annum on present price of copper, a showing which would seem to warrant a price better than $16 a share for the stock.

NEW YORK LETTER.

THE RAILWAY STRIKE.—Grave suspicion that political expediency rather than justice, that a determination to make Democratic capital rather than best to conserve all interests, has from the first controlled President Wilson in his handling of the threatened railway strike has long existed here. This suspicion is now confirmed by the Washington correspondent of the New York Herald, an independent Democratic paper. He says, "The plain truth is that there has been politics in this situation from the time that the President took hold of it, at least ever since he abandoned the principle of arbitration and declared himself in favor of the eight hour day, when he knew that the demand of the brotherhoods did not contemplate an eight hour day; that, in fact, an eight hour work day is about the last thing desired by them. The President's failure to deal frankly by the public is at the bottom of all the troubles now confronting him and the Democrats of Congress. If he had told the public that the issue was solely one of wage increase, had said the men were entitled to the increase—which they are if their incomes are fairly compared with those of other Americans in this era of war prosperity—and had straightforwardly and courageously gone about it to see that the railroads were reimbursed by being permitted to increase their charges, thus placing the burden upon the public which should pay, the Democrats of Congress would not now be in a state of panic over an attempt to devise ways and means to prevent a strike. As it is, the whole railway situation is immersed in politics. It is being dealt with here solely from a political standpoint, and administration leaders now realize that it is full of dynamite."

MEXICO AND THE STRIKE.—Recent dispatches from Washington describe the President as holding day and night conferences with the leaders of Congress regarding the railway strike situation. In striking contrast with his present course was his earlier policy. When he first undertook to act as mediator in the railway situation he consulted nobody—with the possible exception of Crown Prince McAdoo—but, supreme in his own self confidence, he blundered along, forfeiting the confidence of both parties to the controversy until his influence was reduced to zero. It is the story of his handling the Mexican situation over again. With hundreds of able and experienced men at his command, both willing and anxious to advise him he sought no advice, pinned his faith to Villa, whom he described as "a patriot," seized Vera Cruz to drive out Huerta, the only ruler, de facto or otherwise, during the Wilson administration who succeeded in protecting the lives and property of Americans in Mexico, and from Mr. Wilson's overweening self-confidence in that instance has resulted the American dead at Vera Cruz, Carrizal and elsewhere, the mobilization of the militia on the border and all the loss and expense which have been the fruits of Woodrow Wilson's Mexican policy.

The children of the playgrounds will visit Portsmouth fair on Wednesday, through the generosity of a well known patron, making the trip in barges.

The newly designed quarter on one side has the full figure of a woman coming through a gate in a wall, the reverse shows an eagle in flight. The 50-cent piece bears a full length figure of the Goddess of Liberty holding olive branches, while the reverse design is that of a spread eagle standing on a rock.

HAMPTON BEACH CARNIVAL FAVORED WITH FINE WEATHER

Ideal weather conditions favored the opening of the second annual Hampton Beach Carnival. The day's program was opened by a base ball game between the Haverhill and Exeter teams. At 1:30 P. M. T. Fish gave an airplane flight that was witnessed by a large concourse of people. This was followed by the arrival of the King of the Carnival impersonated by Kenneth French of Boston, who was officially welcomed by President J. Frank James of the Board of Trade, and the King was presented with the keys of the beach.

At 7:45 there was a grand illumination and the opening of the confetti battle in front of the band stand by King Carnival.

The day's program was concluded by a display of fireworks. During the day four band concerts were given and Misses Rosiers of New York rendered vocal solos.

street, is lying at the Lawrence General Hospital with a fractured skull as

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY FARMERS' ASSOCIATION

All of the members of the Rockingham County Farmers' Association, and many other farmers in the county know that the plans of the county agricultural agent, included eighteen specific demonstrations, for the improvement of the farm business, livestock, and crops. The work as conducted so far has resulted in the starting of each demonstration as outlined in the spring in some parts of Rockingham County.

Results are just being obtained, and the Association is now starting a publicity campaign to tell of the work of the association and its agent.

The following demonstrations are in development: Formation cow test association, 11; dairy record, 33; balanced ration, 52; poultry record, 26; poultry improvement, 44; crop rotation, 4; corn silage, 32; clover and lime, 14; soy beans, 8; vetch, 3; alfalfa, 21; acid phosphate, 3; witchgrass eradication, 3; top-dressing haylands, 4; orchard renovation, 3; farm business, 101.

Reports will be given from time to time on the different demonstrations.

All farmers, business and professional men in Rockingham county, who are interested in the development of the agricultural resources of their home county should follow the reports of the different demonstrations. The work of the association is worthy of both moral and financial support, as agricultural prosperity is the basis of business prosperity in a given area.

RU-TAN-ERB IS THE ONLY PREPARATION THAT HAS EVER GIVEN ME PERMANENT RELIEF—SAYS LEWISTON WOMAN.

Good health is the most valuable possession of man, and few people fully realize the statement until they find themselves in a rundown and weakened condition.

Take the proper care of your stomach, and you will avoid a large percentage of the ills which make life almost unbearable.

The new herbal tonic, Ru-tan-erb,
which has given such remarkable relief to thousands is daily being endorsed as the only proper treatment for the ills arising from that sensitive and much overworked organ the stomach.

The recent letter from Mrs. Ernest Dunham, 23 Chapel, Lewiston, Maine, will surely warrant your reading. Mrs.
Dunham says:

For a long period I have been a silent sufferer from a badly deranged stomach, which would take different forms of causing me untold annoyance.
First on arising, I would suffer headaches. Would be badly nauseated, and had no appetite. Somehow or other I would manage to attend to my affairs, but I knew the condition of my stomach was undermining my health. I was terribly constipated all the time, and found no relief from the many advertised preparations on the market, until a few weeks ago when I read of Ru-tan-erb ad in this paper.

I immediately went to the drug store, purchased a bottle, and it certainly has made a new woman of me. My headaches have disappeared entirely, I can eat three meals a day with a relish and what pleases me most of all is my bowels move freely and with regularity.

Ru-tan-erb is the one preparation I would recommend to my dearest friends, and the only one that ever gave me permanent relief.

This preparation made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, is now being featured at Philbrick's Drug Store, Portsmouth, N. H. Call or write today. Mail orders promptly filled on receipt of $1.00.

THE PUBLIC WILL PAY, PAY, PAY.

President Wilson's triumph is complete. The Senate has passed the Adams bill writing the eight-hour principle into law as a means of increasing wages of railway employees on lines engaged in interstate commerce and creating a commission to see that ten hours' pay is given for a day's work. The measure is now ready for the President's signature, which will probably be affixed today. When that is done the order will be issued resolving the strike order and the menace to the country will be removed.

This is a free country where the public will pay for the increased expense and be glad to get out of a situation which would have involved very unpleasant conditions for every one.

It is all very well for the newspapers to rave against the brotherhoods for being blackmailers and to criticize the President and the members of the House and the Senate who voted for the bill under the threat of strike, for being cowards. After all, the responsibility was concentrated in the administration at Washington and in Congress. That responsibility has been taken for the protection of the public.

Now, what will the public think of the matter? It is for the public to say, just as it is for the public to pay, pay, pay.

ASSISTED THE CHOIR.

ing excellent work. In the and Mercandante. Previous to the gation, many of them strangers from the several nearby summer resorts.

the same.

RECORD CROWD ATTENDS OPENING DAY AT FAIR

Between 9000 and 10,000 Present at the Second Annual Portsmouth Fair Which Opened Yesterday Morning.—Features Far Ahead of Former Efforts.

The success of the Portsmouth Fair of 1915 appears to have been surpassed in every department by the efforts of the Southern Agricultural and Fair Association in their arrangements for the second annual fair which opened at the fair grounds Labor Day. The time, trouble and untiring efforts toward a certain success were amply apparent and the success of 1915 brought added crowds this year for the opening day. From the time the fair gates were opened at 10.00 o'clock until late in the afternoon, a steady stream of people were continually passing into the grounds; the number totaling between 8,000 and 10,000 people; brought to the grounds by special trains, cars, barges, autos and trucks. And on arrival they found that the arrangements for handling the crowds could not have been better. From the time of a person's arrival until his departure late in the afternoon or early evening, there was more than enough in the way of attraction to hold all interested. The day's program officially opened at 10.00 o'clock with a band concert and a general inspection of the exhibits. Professor J. A. McLean of Amherst College, Amherst, Mass., officiated as judge of the cattle and he was closely followed throughout his tour of inspection by a large number, many of which expressed the opinion that it was a veritable education to listen to him. Professor McLean spent more than two hours at his work, a particularly large number of exhibits having been entered in the cattle department.

This exhibit of the state college was also in this section and included many interesting features.

Horse Races
The races were run off under the direction of the Portsmouth Driving Club and three classes met in the afternoon, each heat of the three proving a real race. In the 2.30 trot the race was captured after four heats by Dainty Guy, her best time being the third heat, 2.29 1-4. The fastest heat was the first, won by Anna May in 2.27 1-4.

In the Free For All Mudlake, an old time favorite, cleaned up in straight heats, his fastest time being the first, 2.17 1-4. This race was exciting and all three horses came under the wire each heat with only a few inches separating them.

The 2.25 pace was captured by Hibi Oak, taking three of the four heats in fast time. Bessie Herick, another of the Portsmouth favorites, was last in the money.

TWO CHILDREN INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT
HAMPTON CARNIVAL MARRIED BY ONE ACCIDENT OCCURRING ON THE HEAVILY CROWDED BOULEVARD.

The opening of the second annual carnival at Hampton Beach was marred by an automobile accident when Ardis M. aged 16, and Maxine Esther, aged 4, daughters of Mrs. Jesse Eva Collins of Houlton, Me., were struck and knocked down on the Ocean boulevard in the afternoon by a car owned and driven by Thomas H. Finnegan of Exeter. According to the driver of the car he was proceeding at a very slow rate of speed at the time of the accident, owing to the congested condition of the street. He not only sounded his horn but shouted a warning to the two girls as they attempted to cross in front of his machine.

The mudguard of the car struck the elder of the two girls and as she fell she dragged the four-year old child to the ground with her and both went under the running board. Mr. Finnegan stopped his car immediately and the two children were taken to the Boardman cottage where they were staying. Dr. A. M. Fernald was called and found that the elder girl had three ribs broken and her elbows and knees badly bruised. The younger child is suffering from a bad bruise on her face and from internal injuries; the extent of which could not be determined for several days. Mrs. Collins and her eight children had planned returning to their home in Maine sometime today.

The members of Portsmouth Lodge, No. 97, B. P. O. E., are to shortly present an American flag to the directors of the Y. M. C. A. to replace the one now in use on the Y. M. C. A. building.

HEARD AT THE NATIONAL CAPITOL

(Special Correspondence)

A comparison between the records of President Wilson and Governor Hughes is not to the credit of Mr. Wilson in the eyes of organized labor. It is immensely to the credit of Governor Hughes.

President Wilson has never shown solicitude for the laboring men's welfare—his efforts to settle the railroad embargo was the first time the President manifested the slightest interest in labor's affairs, and that interest was not due to any love for labor but to the spur of public opinion which demanded there should be no strike.

The dispute had been brewing many months but the President waited until a little more than sixty days before the National election to summon the brotherhood chiefs and the railroad heads to Washington.

Perhaps there was a "psychological" reason for this. If not the reason of political advantage.

Labor unions are justified in looking askance at the President in view of his spoken and written utterances regarding labor.

In Mr. Wilson's "History of the American People" he says "The Chinese were more to be desired as workmen. If not as citizens, than most of the coarse crew that came crowding in every year at the Eastern ports."

The "coarse crew" the President described as "bordering on" included the millions of foreign-born persons of every nationality who are now loyal citizens of the United States.

In the same book the President said "And now there came multitudes of men of the lowest class from the south of Italy, and men of meaner sort out of Hungary and Poland, men out of the ranks where there was neither skill nor energy nor any initiative of quick intelligence."

What do American citizens of German, Italian, Hungarian, Polish, or any European ancestry think of that?

On June 3, 1909, in an address to the graduating class of Princeton University, Dr. Wilson expressed his remarkable views on labor in the following words "You know what the usual standard of the employee is in our day. It is to give as little as he may for his wages."

At a dinner in the Waldorf Hotel in New York, March 15, 1907, Dr. Woodrow Wilson spoke as follows: "We speak too exclusively of the capitalistic class. There is another as formidable an enemy to equality and freedom of opportunity as it is, and that is the class formed by the labor organizations and leaders of the country."

Contrast the labor record of President Wilson with the labor record of Governor Hughes.

Governor Hughes has never written or spoken a single word inimical to labor. On the contrary he was the greatest friend of labor that ever occupied the governor's chair at Albany. Legislative records at Albany show that during his two terms as governor of New York he signed 55 labor laws.

In New York State, during 132 years, only 162 labor laws were passed. One-third of these were signed during Hughes' two terms as Governor. With these records it will be easy for organized labor to select its candidate in the November election.

"I am surprised to read in the despatches from Maine that William M. Ingraham, Assistant Secretary of War, claims that the Democrats are to be credited with giving the country the best Army bill that has ever been passed."

"We Republicans," said Representative Julius Kahn, of California, ranking minority member of the House Committee on Military Affairs, "have always contended that the National Defense is not a matter of party politics. Every patriotic citizen is equally interested in seeing his country properly prepared regardless of political affiliations."

"As a matter of fact many of the

FIRST ALARM FOR FIRE FOR THREE MONTHS

BOX 78 CALLED DEPARTMENT OUT FOR SLIGHT BLAZE—FIRST GENERAL ALARM SINCE JUNE 9

Box 78, at the corner of Islington street and Sphumey Road on Monday afternoon called the department to a slight blaze in the barn of John Leary, Islington street, and the fire was put out a few minutes later, the combination auto having been called previous to the general alarm by telephone. The damage was slight as the fire was confined to a load of hay on the barn floor.

This is the first box alarm in the city since June 9, when box 25 called the department to a fire in the South Ward room. Several changes have occurred in the personnel of the department since the call on June 9 and for some of the men this was their first run since becoming members of the permanent department.

WHEN MAINE WAS A POWER.

(From the New York Evening Post)
The name of Hale as that of a candidate for the Senate in Maine recalls the palmy days of Maine's dominance at Washington. In the last Congress controlled by the Republicans, Senator Hale, father of the present candidate, was chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, and the State's other senator, Frye, was at the head of the Committee on Commerce. New York had two important chairmen, in the House, Payne, of the Ways and Means Committee, and Alexander, of Rivers and Harbors. But neither New York nor any other State could compare with Maine at the height of her glory. The story cannot be better told than in the words of an ante Southerner who burst into Reed's office with the indignant demand, "Who's running this Government, anyway?" Reed's drawing "The great and good, John, of course," was the signal for the following retort:

"Well, the great and the good must all live in Maine, then. I come up here on business with the Secretary of State—Mr. Blaine, from Maine. I call to pay my respects to the acting vice-president, Mr. Frye, from Maine. I wish to consult the leader of the United States Senate—Mr. Hale, from Maine. I would talk over a tariff matter with the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee—Mr. Dingley, from Maine. There is a naval bill in the House in which I am greatly interested—Chairman Boutelle, from Maine. I wish an addition to the public building in Richmond—Chairman Miliken, from Maine. And here I am in the august presence of the great Speaker of the greatest parliamentary body in the world—Mr. Reed, from Maine."

The story goes on to say that the Southerner "went out laughing to lunch with the Chief Justice—Mr. Fuller, from Maine," but that is drawing the bow rather long. Fuller was born in Maine, but Cleveland took him from Illinois. The record shows one way, nevertheless, by which a State so small and so certain that its electoral vote is not the object of hard fighting may obtain a tremendous influence in the Government. All it need do is to keep its representatives in office. Seniority will do the rest. But might not the Democrats have charged their opponents with sectionalism?

The ideal weather conditions on Labor day brought much happiness to the people who toil for a living, all over the country.
Hughes says he would like six months to investigate the Administration, but the Administration figures he's doing very well as it is.
Yes, and the same policies that have allied Judge Hughes and others with "a deep sense of shame" have sent many other Americans to their graves.
The President has changed his mind about sending more troops to the border, thus running true to form.
When Tom Taggart talks economy to them, it is time the Democrats stopped their extravagance.
The Hughes smile is beginning to attract favorable attention.
President Entertains Five Progressives—Headline. Others he simply amuses.

The annual convention of Rockingham County Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held at the Congregational church, Epping, on Thursday, Sept. 15th, at 10.15 a. m. Portsmouth Republicans showed that they were very much alive on Monday evening on the occasion of the flag raising.

A special meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium on Thursday, Sept. 7th at 3 p. m. A full attendance is requested. The roads to the fair grounds should have been oiled before the opening. Many complaints were heard from the public who visited the fair grounds. The Boston & Maine will probably change to the winter schedule the last Sunday of September.

The veteran firemen are trying to get up some speed among the crew of their handbills.

SMALL VOTE BEING CAST

Not Much Interest by Either Party in the Primary Election.

Very little interest was shown in the city today in the primary election by both parties and the total vote will not exceed 500. The only contest is that of Noone and Hutchins on the Democratic ticket for governor. The Republicans have a fight for county attorney between Hatch and Sleeper and the party workers say Hatch will win out in this city and the county. There is a contest for registrar of voters in Ward Five between William T. Patten and John Smart.

The Democrats are writing in names some of the county officers and ward representatives where no nominations were made. The Progressive party will cast less than 25 ballots in the city.

The Democrat leaders believe that Hutchins will win out against Noone in Portsmouth.

WARD ONE.

Up to noon a very light vote had been cast in this ward, but during the noon hour quite a number of workingmen took the opportunity to exercise their right of franchise. The polls opened at 6 o'clock with Moderator William J. Gallagher presiding. The ballot inspectors were John August Hett, John E. Milton, Eugene J. Sullivan, and William H. Hudger. The first man to vote was Anderson Scott. During the morning hours there was no rush at any time and it looked at one time as though the ballot would be an exceedingly light one.

At 1 o'clock upwards of one hundred ballots had been cast by the Republicans while the Democratic vote was in the vicinity of thirty. Not a Progressive vote was cast up to that time.

COAST GUARD PICKED THEM UP

Engine Refused to Work and Crew Displayed Signals of Distress.

A power boat containing John G. Tooley and Frank Wetzel was picked up by the Coast Guard from Portsmouth Harbor station on Sunday in answer to distress signals displayed by the occupants of the boat.

The men were between Rye Beach and Wood Island when the engine refused to work and they began drifting out to sea. Finally the man in the lookout sighted them and a boat was sent to tow them in after being nearly two hours without power.

PLAYGROUND NOTES.

Those children wishing to go to the fair must sign up at the shelter house at the playgrounds. Only a limited number can go on account of the difficulty of transportation. The first ones to sign up will have the preference. The trucks will leave the Universalist church at 9.30.

The last hopes defeated the B. A. C. 18 to 3, in the third and deciding game this morning at the playgrounds. The B. A. C. were handicapped in the first two innings by the absence of some of their best men. Frazier pitched the first part of the game and was later replaced by Dowd, who arrived in the third inning. Batteries, B. A. C., Dowd and Call; Last Hopes, Hewitt and Yeaton. The lineup:

Last Hopes—Pillgrim, ss; Yeaton, cf; Hurley, 1b, ss; Hewitt, p; Conover, 1b; Moore, 3b; Clarke, cf; Leavitt, 2b; K. Yeung, cf.

OBITUARY.

Joseph Elliott

The death of Joseph Elliott, one of the best known and aged residents of the Christian Shore district, occurred at his home on Maplewood avenue on Monday evening. He was born in Dover June 25, 1830, and passed his boyhood and early days in that city. He was for a time connected with the Dover Fire department. He afterwards moved to Lynn, Mass., where he worked at his trade of shoemaking. For the past 40 years he had made his home in this city and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was for a number of years employed as a farm hand by the late Frank Jones. In politics he was a staunch Democrat.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Barney, wife of Conductor Herman A. Barney, of the Boston and Maine railroad, who resides in Somerville, and a son, Joseph T. Elliott, who resided at home.

NAVY YARD NOTES

Pier Takes Fire.

Fire of unknown origin was discovered in Pier 6, at the Charles town navy yard shortly before 10 o'clock Saturday night. The United States monitor Ozark and the three-sub-marines, the L-3, the L-10 and the L-11, were lying alongside the pier, but were not seriously threatened. The crew of the Ozark had the fire well under control when the firemen arrived. The damage was about $100.

Big Payroll at Boston.

Twenty-six hundred and fifty-two men were on the payroll at the Charles town navy yard when work ceased at noon Saturday. The number would have been three thousand, if the kind of mechanics the yard wants could be secured. The number now employed at the yard is the largest in years; and with the building of the new fuel ship it is believed that number will far surpass that employed during the war with Spain.

Going Out of Commission.

The U. S. S. Marietta, which was assigned to the local yard as home port for many years, will be put out of commission at the Boston yard.

Some Quick Change.

One can see how quick the change was made on the Mexican peace conference. Captain Howard, yard commandant, was instructed in a letter from the department written on Sept. 2, which reached him on Monday to make the necessary arrangements for any quarters which the commission might need at the yard. The letter had hardly reached him when it was announced that the deliberations would take place at New London. No one can be found who can explain the real cause for the sudden change. However, we will be wide awake all the time for the conference that will follow the big European conflict.

For Ship Officers.

A supervisory board is conducting an examination at the yard for officers of the ships.

Weekly Conference.

The weekly conference of ship commanders and Capt. W. L. Howard was held in the commandant's office today.

On Short Vacation.

THOUSANDS TO HEAR HUGHES.

Portsmouth will turn out thousands to see and hear Charles E. Hughes at the playgrounds on Thursday at 12.15. A stand is to be erected in front of the grandstand and from this Mr. Hughes will make the powerful address of his New England tour. He will give much time for this meeting where he expects to meet Republicans from all over the state. Let every citizen of the state that can possibly get away come to Portsmouth on Thursday to hear the young men along and invite your friends to come to Portsmouth on Thursday.

LAUGHS THICK AS BULLETS.

It may have been Labor Day elsewhere, but believe us, it was no labor at the Colonial to laugh at and with Ben Loring and his corps of Pun sharpshooters. Every one of the big company hit the mark. Laughs were as frequent as bullets at the Battle of Bull Run. Ben seemed to enjoy the thing as much as anybody even if he is drawing a big salary for it.

The music made an unprecedented hit and it should have for seldom is a more enjoyable program of songs put together. The comedy songs hit the audience right on its funnybone and the serious numbers were gems of their kind. The big chorus of comedy daughters of America displayed a charm of manner and finish in their dancing which captivated the most blasé of the spectators. Mr. Loring as Dealey, who blows accidentally into a cabaret was screamingly funny. All the cleverness of this situation was brought to the surface, Wednesday the Loring Company plays "Mother," another comedy success and Friday and Saturday they play "The Fly Inspector." With this first two days' comedy is a fine five reel picture called "The Kiss of Fate," featuring Ethel Barrymore.

SUPERVISORS FOR SEPTEMBER.

NOTICE.

The Girls' Club will hold an important meeting at their rooms, 15 Pleasant street, on Friday evening, Sept. 8th, at 7 p. m. to discuss the new club home. A large attendance is desired.

TO REPAIR HIGHWAY

Public Spirited Citizens Help Town of Rye on Expense.

Plans are underway and work already started for the much needed improvement of the Wentworth House road, beginning at the Ito line and continuing to the Wentworth Hotel. This highway will be put in first class condition by the town officials through the efforts of Manager Harry W. Priest of the hotel, W. H. Hite of New Castle and the Portsmouth Motor Mart.

In cooperating with the selectmen and road agent of Rye, the above named parties are to assist financially in the expense of road work and show much public spirit in so doing. The best of material needed will be put in and the road will equal any highway of the state when the season of 1917 opens.

HOSPITAL NOTES.

The present season has no doubt been the busiest in the history of the Portsmouth hospital. During the month of August nearly 90 patients were admitted and 21 operations took place during the week ending Sept. 2.

The X-ray has not as yet been placed in position in the room recently constructed for the same although the much needed instrument was delivered to the hospital many weeks ago. The medical fraternity are anxious over the installation of this valuable apparatus as well as the patients who require use of it.

At the present time there are 39 patients confined at the institution and eight extra nurses are employed on special cases.

One of the next improvements which has not to come is a new sterilizing equipment. This is one of the most needed improvements for the hospital. The present sterilizer which was a second hand affair when purchased, has outgrown its usefulness and should have gone to the junk heap years ago.
